A licensed real estate agent and auctioneer, Rocky is one of the most successful and sought-after auctioneers in Sydney with an exceptional track record for generating strong sale prices. Rocky conducted his first auction in 2002 at the age of 22, after commencing work in the industry in 1997. He gained experience auctioneering for the No 1 office in Sydney's Northern Districts and is trained by some of the industry's best practitioners. In 2003, Rocky launched Auction Services and has since conducted in excess of 4000 auctions both on site and in-rooms for all the major real estate franchises and boutique offices across Sydney.

Highly respected by his peers, Rocky is able to read and relax a crowd – an integral skill to ensure strong bidding. His sound judgment, powerful communication skills and ability to quickly build rapport with bidders ensures every part of the auction process reaches its optimum potential. In addition to auctioneering, Rocky is also a leader within the online portal space having worked for Domain (at Fairfax Media) for the last 6 years before joining Homely.com.au in 2014.

Rocky's vast market knowledge and advertising experience gives him a significant edge as an auctioneer. Rocky brings a detailed understanding of the latest market conditions and challenges to the auction floor and tailors the auction experience to suit. Rocky is also an industry trainer and his company offers CPD training as well as coaching for agents and offices.

A charity auctioneer if needed Rocky is proud of the high profile charity events he's been involved in over the years, including the 2013 Arnott's Foundation Gala Dinner and Charity Auction; the Australian Diabetes Council Buzz Ball; and an event for the Bobby Goldsmith Foundation hosted at the residence of Lucy and Malcolm Turnbull (MP). Altogether, he has raised more than $420,000 for charity and his team donate monthly to Camp Quality foundation.
